It was great to see familiar and new faces. Please enjoy this issue of seeing how we celebrated the Mid autumn Festival with our students. I would like to thank all of our parents for helping to make our end of day pick up arrangements at Yuntai gate run smoothly. It is extremely important that we work together to ensure the safety of our students. Please remember to always stand by the grade sign so that your child's Homeroom Teacher can see you clearly and send your child directly to you. Thank you and enjoy the weekend.

Information Evening

On Wednesday 22nd of September, we welcomed our wonderful parents to our school and classes. Our homeroom teachers held their Information Evening to share all the details about our school and class. Our teachers shared their classroom setup and strategies they use to best facilitate their students' learning. Our display boards were filled with excellent examples of student work. Parents received some key insights to all homeroom subjects, knowing the different topics and units that their class will cover. Our specialist teachers created videos and PowerPoints for parents to share. If you have not seen the videos from our specialist teachers, you may find them on our online drive by clicking this link:

Mid-Autumn Festival Assembly

The Mid-Autumn Festival is a traditional Chinese folk festival. Since ancient times, there have been many folk customs, such as offering sacrifices to the moon, appreciating the moon, eating moon cakes, playing lanterns, guessing lantern riddles, appreciating Osmanthus flowers and drinking Osmanthus wine, which have been handed down to us for a long time. The folk lantern riddles are an art form of Chinese folk literature. It is the wisdom and crystallization of the people in long-term labor practice. It comes from life and is used for life. It is also a kind of intellectual activity game that people like to see.

On September 17, ISP teachers and students dressed in traditional Chinese costumes and participated in the Mid-Autumn Festival themed assembly.

In the Grade one assembly, five children were on the stage to tell a story about the Mid-Autumn Festival myth. After the story, they also answered some questions about the stories. The students listened attentively and answered the questions actively.

In the G2 to G5 assemblies, students had a riddle guessing event.

Riddles involve a wide range of content. Not only the Mid-Autumn Festival idioms, and guessing word puzzles, but additionally brain teasers, guessing idioms according to the pictures etc.

The students and teachers enjoyed participating and talking to each other to discuss riddles, learned new things and greatly enjoyed the game.
